

Dorant Velija

I'm Dorant, a Software Engineering student enrolled in my first year of undergraduate studies. I'm an aspiring developer and designer. I have experience in web development, web design, and graphic design. I am looking to further expand my assortment of skills and improve the ones I already possess.

DESIGN PROJECTS

Vergoox — Clothing Brand

This is one of my passion projects, as I have always wanted to have my own clothing brand I decided to try and build a shopify store to showcase my designs to people with likeminded people.

EuroLine — Car Rental

I wanted to test my skills and what I could design, so I took the opportunity to help a local business digitalise and potentially gain new customers through their website by showcasing their fleet of cars.

SilkyNotes — Note Taking App Landing Page

This was made during a hackathon, where I was in charge of designing the landing page for our note taking app, SilkyNotes. Which uses AI to help users learn and memorise faster through flash cards and adapting the learning experience through time. Unfortunately, this project never came to fruition, but this design still stands as one of the cleanest landing pages I have made.

CODING PROJECTS

WeatherApp

This is my “first” finished coding project. It's a simple weather app, using openweathermap's api for weather stats. It is also available on my site for live use.
